I. FACULTY OF HUMANITIES (FHS)

History

The Faculty of Humanities (FHS) is Charles University's youngest faculty. Originally founded in the early 1990s as the Institute for Liberal Education, it was elevated to the rank of a faculty in 2000, the vision being that it would offer study programmes at the Bachelor, Master's and PhD levels in various humanities and social science disciplines not yet established at CU. The FHS quickly gained a reputation as a progressive school with innovative study programmes and teaching methods.

Mission

The mission of the Faculty of Humanities is through high-quality education to endow students with the ability to lead a fulfilling life in this increasingly complex and changing world.

Goals

- to provide education in the humanities and social sciences that meets the highest international standards;
- to achieve excellence in research and integrate it with education;
- to cultivate the ability of students to learn throughout life and encourage self-responsibility and a commitment to society;
- to promote the mobility of the FHS's increasingly international student body and academic staff.

Science and Research

The Faculty of Humanities is dedicated to excellence in various areas of academic research. The faculty participates in international and national research projects and promotes young researchers' academic development.

Research at the Faculty of Humanities is supervised by the Department of Science and Research. The list of all research projects is available on the department's website: <http://fhs.cuni.cz/FHSENG-367.html>.

Examples of the most important projects:

- Religious Cultures in Europe of the 19th and 20th centuries, prof. Miloš Havelka, CSc. (in cooperation with Professor Dr. Martin Schulze Wesse, Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich)
- Philosophical Investigations of Body Experiences: Transdisciplinary Perspectives, Karel Novotný, M.A., Ph.D. (in cooperation with doc. Hans Rainer Sepp, Dr.)

Structure of the Faculty

BA DEGREE STUDY PROGRAMME IN ENGLISH

i. Institute of Liberal Arts and Humanities (SHV)

The programme of Liberal Arts and Humanities (SHV) is focused on philosophical, historical, and cultural and social anthropology. The significant features of the programme are broad offer of courses and liberal curriculum that allows students to improve their individual abilities and interests. Students complete mandatory courses in humanities and social sciences and pass comprehensive exams relevant to each field. By their choice of courses during their study, they can gradually specialise either for further (Master's) studies, or for the practical use of the acquired skills.

The study programme is divided into two segments, the theoretical segment and the application segment, and into six sub-modules: the theoretical segment includes the social science, the historical and the philosophical modules; the application segment is comprised of the communicative, the creative and the qualified skills modules. The head of each particular module is responsible for the selection and for the quality of offered courses. It is customary that each student chooses a so-called tutor (a teacher of FHS UK) at the beginning of or during their studies. The tutor helps students to choose relevant courses and later the theme of their diploma thesis, of which they are the supervisor of. Choosing a tutor is not compulsory, but highly recommended, as they aid in the easier and more successful orientation in the study programme.

Information on the graduates' acquired skills

The graduate of Liberal Arts and Humanities acquires knowledge in many disciplines of the humanities (philosophy, sociology, psychology, history, anthropology and economics) and interdisciplinary, thorough practical knowledge of at least one foreign language, including the capability of professional translation, the ability of critical thinking and of sophisticated speech and writing. Great emphasis is put, above all, on self-reliance and responsibility training and on individual creative work, which allows for further effective education and flexibility under the changing conditions on the labour market. The graduate acquires qualifications for a wide range of professions, for example, in the fields of state administration and self-government, in non-profit organisations, in education, in research activities for various institutions, or in consulting in the multicultural sphere and in humanities-oriented institutions. The graduate with a predominantly theoretical specialisation acquires during their studies not only a solid base in the general humanities, but also expertise in any of above-mentioned humanities disciplines, and thus will be adequately prepared for further studies in many humanities branches on the master's level. The graduate with a predominantly applied skills specialisation may be employed in the fields of public relations, advertisement, media etc., thanks to their acquired knowledge of, for example, creating research projects, text editing and preparation, information processing and creating company presentations.

Entrance Exams

The three-year study programme is open in the present form of study. The entrance examination is comprised of a summary of an English academic text, to be written in English, and answering follow-up questions based on the text, in English. These questions are intended to ascertain whether or not the applicant fully grasped the contents of the text. The applicant can acquire up to 28 points (25 for the summary and one point for each of the answers). An applicant whose summary is not satisfactory will be awarded 0 points and will not be admitted. The conditions for admittance include presenting a diploma certifying successful completion of secondary school (high school). In case of high school graduation abroad, applicants have to submit nostrification of high school diploma. Electronic aids are not allowed during the entrance examination. Prior to the examination, applicants will receive a letter announcing the date and time of the examination. It is anticipated that the examination will be held on Wednesday, June 6th, 2012. Applicants who cannot take the examination due to justified reasons (illness) will be given an extra term of the examination. Simultaneously taking another entrance examination to another graduate school is not considered a legitimate reason for being entitled to take it at a later date. A duly justified request for a later date of the entrance examination should be delivered to the Students' Office within three working days after the regular term of the examination.

MA DEGREE STUDY PROGRAMMES IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

i. German and French Philosophy in European Context

The Erasmus Master Mundus programme German and French Philosophy in Europe (EuroPhilosophie) offers a two-year Master's study programme to students from all over the world who are chosen by an entrance exam; the study programme is aimed especially at German and French philosophy from the 18th century to the present and their reciprocal influences in the intellectual and cultural European space. The programme is taught in German and French at seven different universities. Tuition at FHS UK is particularly focused on German and French phenomenology, but courses on German classic philosophy and contemporary French thought are also offered.

Head of the German and French Philosophy in European Context Programme:

Karel Novotný M. A., Ph.D. (Karel.Novotny@fhs.cuni.cz)

Application deadline: January 28

Application form: <http://fhs.cuni.cz/FHSENG-362.html>

Tuition fee: 2,400 € / semester (non-European students), 750 €/semester (European students)

EU grants: 20,800 € / year (non-European students), 9,000 €/year (European students)

Language of instruction: French, German

Further information: www.europhilosophie.eu

ii. Historical Sociology

The aim of the study programme of historical sociology is to cultivate research activities and the education of experts with a specialisation in the issues of long-term social processes and trends that have a significant impact on life of contemporary societies. Above all, it deals with the problems of modernisation and social change, globalisation trends and influences, integration and disintegration processes, relationship of continuity and discontinuity, religious and cultural pluralism, linking the global to the local, identification of the chances and risks of social development, analysis of conflict situations and the possibility of overcoming them. The need for understanding of all of these issues invokes the need for the development of adequate theoretical and methodological approaches, and also of the specific training of university students.

Head of the Historical Sociology Programme:

doc. PhDr. Jiří Šubrt, CSc. (Jiri.Subrt@fhs.cuni.cz)

Application deadline: August 15

Application form: <https://is.cuni.cz/eng/studium/login.php?do=prihlaska>

Tuition fee: 2,000 € / year

Language of instruction: English

Further information: <http://fhs.cuni.cz/FHSENG-370.html>

iii. Oral History and Contemporary History

The two-year Master's study programme in Oral History and Contemporary History is intended for students interested in contemporary (European) history, in interviewing methodologies and in interpretative methods. Its main aim is to train students to conduct research through creating and analysing interviews, and developing fieldwork projects to address those historical and contemporary issues that require interdisciplinary investigation. The Master is divided into two sections, the first covers contemporary (Czech and international) history and events, the second is methodological and focuses on various interviewing techniques through which we can study contemporary history. It binds together two general approaches of studying history, the macro and micro approaches, and enables a thorough understanding of recent events in history. The Master Study Programme in Oral and Contemporary History has practical applications in academic and university research, historic preservation and legal and human rights work.

Head of the Oral History and Contemporary History Programme:

doc. PaedDr. et. Mgr. Miroslav Vaněk, PhD. (Vanek@usd.cas.cz)

Application deadline: February 28

Application form: <https://is.cuni.cz/eng/studium/login.php?do=prihlaska>

PHD STUDY PROGRAMMES IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

i. General Anthropology

PhD studies of Anthropology are realised in the fields of philosophical, historical, socio-cultural, socio-linguistic and physical anthropology. The task of the study programme is to learn the theoretical basis of the field and to master its methods and methodology of research work. The curriculum includes an exam in a living language and four compulsory exams. The concept of the study programme and the requirements of each field are determined by the department council. The study programme is organised in both fulltime and correspondence forms of study.

Head of the Anthropology Programme:

Doc. PhDr. Jan Horský Ph.D. (Jan.Horsky@fhs.cuni.cz)

Application deadline: April 30

Application form: <https://is.cuni.cz/eng/studium/login.php?do=prihlaska>

Tuition fee: 2,000 € / year

Language of instruction: English

Further information: <http://fhs.cuni.cz/FHSENG-18.html>

ii. Environmental Studies

The objective of this PhD programme is to provide the concept of sustainable development with support in the form of scientifically conducted research. An important aspect of the programme is the interdisciplinary character of the defined research domains and the synergies among them. Although it is not the main goal of the study, the research outputs could be an important source of scientifically validated information for objective, relevant and qualified decision-making on environmental aspects of the economic and social development of the Czech Republic.

The entrance examination includes:

- Debate on the proposed topic for doctoral training (dissertation project).
- For graduates in social sciences, examination of the knowledge of necessary basics in the natural sciences needed for the study of the environment.
- For graduates in natural sciences (medical, technical), examination of knowledge in the social sciences, including economics.
- Examination of English language proficiency.

Head of the Environmental Studies Programme:

prof. Bedřich Moldan, CSc. (Moldan.Bedrich@fhs.cuni.cz)

Courses in Foreign Languages (2011/2012)

You may find the list of courses as well as the schedule in the student information system (SIS): <https://is.cuni.cz/studium/eng/predmety/index.php?KEY=Az1>.

Czech Language Course for Beginners

The course targets students staying in the Czech Republic for a limited period of time and need to cover the basis of the language in order to communicate in everyday situations. It aims to provide the students with basic skills, grammar and vocabulary to deal with the life in the Czech Republic, to give them an idea of the Czech language system as well as Czech culture. The instruction material is based on common situations the students face, with emphasis on both receptive and productive language skills (reading, listening, speaking and writing). Grammar is used functionally, as a tool to reach communicational competencies but not the core purpose of the learning process.

V. STUDENT LIFE / FACILITIES FOR STUDENTS

Accommodation

Accommodation is provided in Charles University's halls of residence (dormitories). Students are normally housed in double-occupancy rooms. Erasmus students are usually housed in Hostivař dormitory (Weilova 2, Prague 10), other international students in Větrník (Kolej Na Větrníku, Prague 6) or Hvězda dormitories (Kolej Hvězda, Prague 6). For further information see this webpage: <http://fhs.cuni.cz/FHSENG-378.html>.

Computer Facilities

PC workstation is available in the main building in Jinonice (building A) in the second floor (room 2063, 2066 – 8). Wireless Internet (Eduroam) can be accessed inside the university buildings (a Charles University Student Card is required). Further information at: eduroam.cuni.cz.

Library & Study Room

The Charles University library system is decentralized and consists of a number of libraries at different locations. The FHS library can be found on the ground floor of the main building in Jinonice, the study room is situated opposite the main building. The online catalogue is available at this website: <http://knihovna.jinonice.cuni.cz/KSVENG-1.html>.

School Cafeteria (Menza)

Charles University operates a number of student cafeterias ('menza') at different locations. The FHS cafeteria is located on the ground floor of the main building in Jinonice.

Online meal ordering: <https://kamweb.ruk.cuni.cz/webkredit/default.aspx>.

Student Card

The CU Student Card and sticker entitle holders to use the libraries, cafeterias, or computer labs of the university and get them a 50% discount on public transportation. Upon charging the card, students may use it for copying, printing or ordering food. The CU ID card is issued by Information and Advisory Centre of CU (Celetná 13, Prague 1). Further information: <http://www.cuni.cz/UK-2046.html>

Sport Centrum

Sport facilities are located in Hostivař (Bruslařská 1132, Prague 15). The up-to-date list of sport courses is available at the beginning of the semester at <http://fhs.cuni.cz/FHSENG-350.html>.

Film Club

The Film Club holds a film screening every fortnight Wednesday at 7 pm in FHS building in Jinonice (room 1036). The current programme can be found on the club's website (http://fkfhs.and.cz//index.php?lang_id=2).

International Students Club

The International Office and Czech student tutors organise regular events (Prague tours, exhibitions, concerts, etc.) for international students. For further information see the website (<http://fhs.cuni.cz/FHSENG-365.html>) or the FB page (Faculty of Humanities).
