CŽV 15 - Course for students of the Liberal Arts and Humanities who failed to complete a school year

Annotation:

A semester-long course is exclusively designed for students of the Liberal Arts and Humanities program who have faced challenges in their academic journey and did not succeed in their studies. Participants have the opportunity to complete any missing knowledge and pass required exams before reapplying for regular studies. They can register for courses provided by the Liberal Arts and Humanities study program, except for UPCES courses (listed under YBAU codes) and CET courses (listed under YBAC). Courses offered by other faculties at CU are not available to students in the Life-long Education Program. Upon completion of the course, participants will receive an official transcript of records.
