
Courses

The Faculty of Humanities offers a wide range of courses in the field of broad Humanities and Social Sciences to exchange students. All the courses are part of FHS degree study programmes that are designed to put a strong emphasis on interdisciplinarity.

Exchange students study together with local students.

Good to Know when selecting courses Exchange students are expected to follow the most of their courses at their particular host CU faculty.

- You may choose both BA ("YB" courses codes) and MA ("YM" codes) courses across different study programmes and departments at the Faculty of Humanities, unless there are specific entry restrictions and requirements for the respective courses.
- It is also possible to take courses outside the FHS, your host faculty, but not more than 49 % in total (e.g. if you would like to take three courses at the Faculty of Social Sciences, you have to take at least four courses provided by the Faculty of Humanities regardless of the overall number of ECTS credits).
- If you are nominated via the Erasmus Agreement with our German and French Philosophy Study programme, you are expected to select some of your course from the course offerings of this study programme. These courses are held in German and are listed with the "YMFPR" course codes.
- If you are an exchange student hosted by a faculty other than the Faculty of Humanities (FHS) and you are interested in attending courses at FHS, please refer to the section Information for CU Exchange Students OUTSIDE the FHS for details on course availability.

Learning Agreement Guidelines When selecting courses and completing your Learning Agreement, please consider the course offer available at the time of applying and note that it is subject to change. You will be able to change your courses at a later stage then.

- The offer for the next academic year (semester) will be a modification of the current academic year course offerings. Some of the current courses might not be offered any longer, while some new courses will be introduced to provide a reasonable number of courses in the field of broad Humanities and Social Sciences.
- You may fill the courses provided by another CU Faculty in your Learning Agreement together with the FHS courses, however please note that the enrolment in these courses cannot be guaranteed either by us or course instructors in advance. Thus we recommend to consider some backup choices based on the FHS course offerings. Students check the availability of those courses during the add/drop period to courses in CU Student information system at the beginning of the semester.
- The usual semester workload is 30 ECTS credits. Depending on the requirements of students' home university, it might be less. However, please note that we require a minimum workload of 20 ECTS credits per semester. Students working on their final thesis during their exchange may finally take a minimum workload of 15 ECTS credits per semester if approved by their home universities.
- Changes to your Learning Agreement are possible during the add/drop period to courses depending on the up-to-date course offerings and timetable.
