Courses on offer

When applying for a semester or a full academic year at the FHS, you will need to design your preliminary study plan. Please consider the courses on offer of the current academic year; whilst the offer for the next academic year will be a modification of this one, some new courses may be introduced, while some of the current courses may be discontinued.

You should select courses for at least 20 ECTS credits.

Students are expected to select the majority of their courses at their respective host CU faculty. Thus the students hosted by the Faculty of Humanities can also choose courses that are offered by CU faculties other than FHS, but not more than 49% of the overall number of courses in their study plans, e.g. if you would like to take three courses at the Faculty of Social Sciences, you have to take at least four courses provided by the Faculty of Humanities regardless of the overall number of ECTS credits (i.e. rather than the number of ECTS credits, it is the number of courses which matters).

You will have a chance to modify and finalise your study plan after your arrival to Prague during the add/drop period (the course registration period), depending on the up-to-date course offerings and schedule.

For the detailed information on course offerings see the sections bellow.

COURSE CATALOGUE

• The list of FHS courses in foreign languages of the current academic year can be downloaded here.

The direct link to the comprehensive CU course catalogue within CU Student Information System is available at is.cuni.cz/studium/eng/predmety/index.php?KEY=Az1, when searching the course catalogue, select the appropriate Faculty, Language (of instruction), and semester options.

Students can select courses across all the different FHS departments and BA and MA study programmes, unless there are any entry requirements for a particular course. But please note the specifics of the courses listed under the codes below:

• The YBAU courses (the UPCES programme), an exchange student can take up to 2 UPCES courses per semester depending on the available capacity. For more detailed information on these courses see the UPCES courses section. Due to very limited size of these courses, we are unable to guarantee the enrolment in the particular UPCES course.
• The YBAC courses (the CET programme) are available only for those exchange students who are spending a full academic year at FHS, and has the opportunity to attend them in spring semesters.
• The YMO courses (the Department of Oral History - Contemporary History) are unavailable to exchange students.

TIMETABLE OVERVIEW

• The course offers and the preliminary schedule of the upcoming semester is usually updated in August and January for winter and summer semesters, respectively.
• Accepted prospective exchange students will receive up-to-date information via e-mail a good time in advance before they arrive.

When using the Xcel sheet, it is possible to filter both the schedule and the list of courses by departments, days, study level etc.

FHS UPCES COURSES (Undergraduate Program in Central European Studies)
The Undergraduate Program in Central European Studies (UPCES) is a joint semester study abroad programme created by FHS and its partner UPCES, CERGE-EI, Charles University. The programme is particularly designed for visiting students from American and Canadian universities. The American and Canadian students participate in the whole programme, while the Faculty of Humanities degree as well as exchange students are welcome to select single courses from the courses on offer of this programme. Degree students (both Czech and international) can attend these courses from the second semester of their studies onwards. Exchange students can take up to 2 UPCES courses per semester depending on the capacity. When designing their study plans, exchange students are therefore expected to select also some other courses than the UPCES (YBAU coded) ones from the courses on offer at FHS. Due to small size of these courses, we are unable to guarantee the enrolment in the particular UPCES course a FHS exchange student may choose.

At the same time, we are unable to guarantee the enrolment in UPCES courses in advance to exchange students hosted by CU Faculties other than FHS. For the students enrolled at other CU Faculties than the FHS, these courses are available only if the course capacity allows (i.e. not all the places are used by the FHS students), the availability to be checked in the Student information system (SIS) when the registration to the courses opens.

Beginning of the teaching period
Winter Term: already from the week from 23/09/2019 onwards
Spring Term: the beginning of the teaching period corresponds with the official beginning of the summer term at the Faculty of Humanities. The first teaching day is February 17, 2020.

UPCES COURSES FEATURES:
• In the FHS course catalogue these courses are listed with the course code starting with YBAU...
• The course overview, assessment requirements as well as further instructions are specified in the course SYLLABUS available in the SIS under each course or can be found here.
• For specific registration requirements - see the SIS.
• For the full degree students of Liberal Arts and Humanities (in English), these courses are listed as optional.
• These courses worth 6 ECTS credits.
• They are scheduled to be 180 min per week.
• The classes are held mostly in the CERGE-EI building in the city centre (Politických Vězňů 7, Prague 1).
• Regular class attendance is mandatory.
• Classes take an interactive approach.
• You should expect required reading throughout the semester; active participation in class discussions; presentations; midterm exams, and a final exam / paper.
• both midterm and final exams

FHS CET COURSES
Central European Studies and Jewish Studies are single semester study abroad programmes provided in cooperation with our partner CET Academic Programs. They are particularly designed for the international students from American and Canadian universities. And while the American and Canadian students participate in the whole programme, the degree students (both Czech and international ones) as well as the non-degree international students of the Faculty of Humanities are welcome to select single courses from the course offerings of this programme. Because the teaching period of these courses begins early, in the summer term, these courses are available only to those exchange students who are studying full academic year at the Faculty of Humanities.
