University Libraries

Charles University's library services are provided by a variety of separate library facilities located at faculties and other parts of the University. All of these library services operate under the supervision of the University's Central Library. Besides traditional lending services (books and other printed documents), the libraries also offer a wide range of electronic resources \(e-resources\).

Internal users (Charles University students, staff and employees) can use the services of individual libraries provided they have valid student or staff cards , which also serve as library reader cards. These cards are available at all Charles University card service centres .

E-resources

As Charles University students or staff you have the opportunity to browse a huge range of electronic publications for which the University has purchased a subscription. These include various journals and publication databases, which will be particularly useful when you are writing your thesis. Some resources are available to users from all faculties, while others are available only to staff and students at a particular faculty. To gain complete access to e-resources and databases, you will first need to log in. For this you will need a login name and a password for the Central Authentication Service (CAS) . Once you have these, you can go to the Charles University E-resources Portal (PEZ in Czech), where you can browse all the publications to which you have access. At present PEZ supports two types of login – Shibboleth and EZproxyk. For both login types you will need a CAS password. You can get more information on the Remote Access to E-resources page.
