
PhDr. Marek Halbich, Ph.D.

Marek HALBICH, assistant professor

Department of General Anthropology

Research Areas

Courses

See SIS.

Contact Information and Office Hours

See SIS.

Languages

- Spanish - fluent
- English - fluent
- French - fluent
- Russian - practical knowledge
- Portuguese - passive knowledge
- Italian - passive knowledge

Education

- 1999–2007: Post-graduate studies in the Institute of Ethnology at Faculty of Arts, thesis Rarámuri in northwestern Mexico: from caves to the ejido – based on the long-term field-work in Mexico, PhD
- 1990–1998: Faculty of Arts at Charles University – field of study: ethnology, MA
- 1985–1990: School of Pedagogics in Ústí nad Labem – field of study: Czech language and literature and civics, MA

Work Experience

- 2002–present: Assistant professor in the Department of Anthropology, Faculty of Humanities, Charles University (2002–2007 head of the department) – classes (focus on): the anthropology of Latin America, ecological anthropology, applied anthropology, linguistic anthropology and anthropology of tourism.
- 2001–2002: Research worker in the Research Centre of Personality and Ethnicity at Faculty of Humanities in Prague

Stays Abroad

- 2012–2014: Three-year anthropological project in Madagascar called Ecological and Social Change in Madagascar: Betsimisaraka in the Glocalised World
- 2005: Two months among the Kaqchikel (Guatemala) – grant scholarship by the Sasakawa foundation
- 2001: Mid-term field-work among the Raramuri, the Tepehuan, the Pima, the Papago and the Yaqui (Mexico) – grant scholarship by the Sasakawa foundation;
- 1996: Several months among the Raramuri (Mexico), the Bribri (Costa Rica), the Emberá and the Wounaan (Panama-Darién), the Subtiava (Nicaragua) and the Kaqchikel (Guatemala);
- 1992: Two months among the Raramuri in northwestern Mexico;